For fans who have enjoyed the deeply nuanced tale of survival in a world overrun with vampires, the announcement of a Van Helsing season 3 renewal is no surprise. As we have noted in our reviews of season 2, the show has found its niche, exploring the emotional depth of troubled relationships and shifting motives in the world of Vanessa Helsing and those that struggle with the fear of becoming a vampire or the regret of what they have done as one.

"I couldn't be happier to learn that Syfy has renewed Van Helsing for a season 3," showrunner Neil Labute told Deadline. "It has been a wonderful journey thus far, but we have much more of the Van Helsing saga to tell before we're through." The news of the Van Helsing season 3 renewal came with three episodes still to air in the second season, which has been airing on Syfy each Thursday at 9pm ET.

Labute writes and produces Van Helsing along with Chad Oakes and Mike Frislev of Nomadic Pictures. Echo Lake Entertainment and Dynamic Television are also attached. "It's great to be working with Syfy on this project again, along with Chad and Mike at Nomadic and all the others at Dynamic and Echo Lake as well," says Labute. "The writing team has some amazing adventures planned for our cast and a few new surprises as well. Expect blood to be spilled and characters to die screaming while the fate of humanity slips closer and closer to the edge of true chaos and utter darkness."

Van Helsing continues this week with episode 11 of season 2 entitled, "Be True."
