Fan favorites SHARKNADO, VAN HELSING, WYNONNA EARP, Z NATION and DARK MATTER – and upcoming new series GHOST WARS, will also be holding special events during SDCC this year. For music lovers, the Syfy drumline will march through San Diego's Gaslamp district as they play their rendition of popular sci-fi music.

SYFY's upcoming Superman prequel series KRYPTON and the graphic novel adaptation HAPPY! is headed to SDCC as well. But panels are just the tip of the iceberg. A dramatically different take on the far campier Battlestar Galactica of the 70s, it proved to be the network's first major hit in original, scripted programming and set the stage for many trends in pop culture, like serialization, fan theories and serious reboots of silly shows and movies.

The network is also planning trivia trolleys with prizes, fan parties, a Syfy drumline playing all your favorite themes, fan weddings officiated by Orlando Jones and cosplay fix kits out to lend a hand on the showroom floor.

SYFY and Universal Cable Productions will also be screening an all-new episode of the grindhouse series BLOOD DRIVE and the premiere episode of "NO-END HOUSE", the next installment in SYFY's hit horror anthology CHANNEL ZERO. SYFY is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, and released a new logo to go along with the celebration.

For fans outside of the Convention Center, Syfy is running Trivia Trolleys, which will offer opportunities to win money and other prizes on the streets of San Diego. Comedian John Hodgman is also moderating the "SYFY Hosts the Great Debate" panel, which will feature sci-fi luminaries debating some of the greatest genre questions, including that of the best Star Trek captain. Cosplay fix carts and a sci-fi themed drumline will also be hitting the streets to assist and entertain.

The weekend will also be home to a few parties, including Levi's invitation-only Friday night bash and SYFY's fan parties on both Thursday and Saturday at the Children's Museum. Even if you're not able to attend San Diego Comic-Con, much of the above fun will be featured on SYFY's three-night live television event, SYFY Live from Comic-Con, hosted by Zachary Levi. And to top it all off, actor Orlando Jones will be making some fans' dreams come true as he presides over nuptials taking place at the convention.
