

Syfy Series Renewed, Gets New Showrunner

Dec 18, 2018

Syfy announced the renewal of a drama series along with naming a new showrunner. The channel will bring back the action-horror series “Van Helsing” for a fourth season.

The announcement comes ahead of the season three finale, scheduled for Dec. 28. Syfy said Jonathan Walker will be the showrunner for the new season.

The series is produced by Nomadic Pictures.

“We consider ourselves very fortunate to be able to return for Season 4 of ‘Van Helsing.’ Without our partners at Syfy, Netflix, SuperEcran and our loyal fans, this would not be possible,” said Chad Oakes, executive producer and co-chairman of Nomadic Pictures. “We welcome Jonathan Walker to the showrunner chair to lead our incredible cast of characters along their journey against the world of vampires!”